COLLECTION AND PROTECTION OF CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Information is collected from licence and certificate applicants to determine their ongoing eligibility and suitability for a brothel licence or manager's certificate and to support decisions by the Prostitution Licensing Authority to grant or refuse licences and certificates.

Applicants supply detailed information through application forms about their personal, business and financial arrangements, their criminal histories and prior involvement in prostitution, their employment history, and their associates as defined by the Prostitution Act 1999. In addition to information sought through application forms, some information is sought from other agencies and financial institutions. Once an individual has made an application to the Office of the Prostitution Licensing Authority, records of contact between Prostitution Licensing Authority staff and the applicant may also be kept.

Access to records containing applicant personal information is granted to the staff of the Office of the Prostitution Licensing Authority. The Office of the Information Commissioner, the Crime and Corruption Commission and the Ombudsman may have access to Prostitution Licensing Authority records containing personal information in the course of their official duties.

All information collected by the Office of the Prostitution Licensing Authority in application forms is made available to the Queensland Police Service pursuant to sections 14 and 39 of the Prostitution Act 1999. The names and dates of birth of applicants and their associates are disclosed to the Liquor Licensing Division and to the Business Licensing Authority (Victoria) for relevant checks. The names of all companies with which applicants are associated are disclosed to the Office of Fair Trading and the Australian Securities and Investments Commission in the course of inquiries.

The Information Privacy Act 2009 provides for the protection of personal information collected and held by Queensland Government Agencies. It is designed to protect all forms of personal information from being lost, misused or inappropriately modified or disclosed. Under the Information Privacy Act, the PLA must comply with Information Privacy Principles which govern how information is collected, stored used and disclosed.

Personal information about applicants is kept in both paper and electronic formats. Applicant's personal information is retained in locked filing cabinets at the Office of the Prostitution Licensing. Electronic information is retained in a password-protected environment.

If an individual believes that their personal information has not been dealt with appropriately, they may make a complaint to the Prostitution Licensing Authority. A complaint must be made in writing within six months from the date when the breach was suspected to have occurred. Written complaints should be sent to the Office of the Prostitution Licensing Authority:
